Say Sales Tax Proposal
Is Bribe Offered Veterans to Espouse Cause of Money Power.

CALL BANK LOAN PLAN
"INSULT TO VETERANS"

Trying to Redeem Reckless Pledges With Worthless I. O. U., Is
Comment on G. O. P.

Washington, March 20.—Another attack on the bonus bill was made today in a minority report from the ways and means committee members, Representatives Kitchin, North Carolina, the democratic leader, and Oldfield, Arkansas; Crisp, Georgia; Cawley, New York, and Tague, Massachusetts, all democrats. They characterized the certificate bank loan as a "due-bill-rail-check-borrow-money bonus mode of payment," and declared that it was "an insult to every world-war veteran and a shameful discredit to congress and the nation."

Insisting that the bonus be paid out in cash, the committee members said that the "big incomes of millionaires and multimillionaires and the 'conscienceless, excessive profits of the big monopolistic corporations,' the minority charged that President Harding and Secretary Mellon "boldly offered a bribe to the world-war veterans to espouse the cause of the money power in their efforts to establish as a part of our revenue system the vicious policy of a general sales tax."

"They offer a bonus in consideration of the veteran and his friends favoring a sales tax," said the report. "They vigorously fight a bonus without a sales tax, in the hope that the brave boys will be tempted to yield and be willing to help the president and Mr. Mellon and the money power to drive the first effective wedge under the established policy of the income tax, founded upon the principle of ability to pay."

The report said the proposition in the bill for bank loans was absolutely a "gold brick" in view of the attitude of the controller of the currency, and added:

"So we are presented with the shameful spectacle of the party that shorted the war, divided our country's war associates, disgraced the peace, deluded the people, deceived the veteran, deserted the wounded, relieved the profiteers, reduced the millionaires' tax, repealed the excess profits tax on the profiteers and which still maintains a blasphemous, bibulous bootlicker at the court of St. James to besmirch with his drunken banquet table the high war purposes of the American people and the inspiration of the American soldiers, now offering to redeem its reckless campaign pledges with an I. O. U. designated a 'certificate,' which the administration has in advance of its issue flatly impeached and discredited."

HUNDRED ROADS ASK INJUNCTION AGAINST U. S.

New York, March 20.—Injunction proceedings were instituted today against the government by counsel for nearly 100 railroads in connection with the rate order promulgated by the interstate commerce commission effective March 1, which the petitioners assert is arbitrary and outside the powers of the commission. Practically all of the eastern lines except the New York Central, Pennsylvania and Baltimore and Ohio joined in the application to set aside the order which reduced by 15 per cent the proportion of rates on interstate shipments given to eastern lines, and added this percentage to the amount allocated to the New England carriers.

PLAN TO STAMPEDE BONUS BILL PAST HOUSE IS BALKED

G. O. P. Leaders Now
Say Measure Will Be Brought Up for Action
Thursday.

HARDING WITHHOLDS OPINION ON BILL

Says He Thinks It Matter for Congress, and
Will Make No Comment
Now.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.
Washington, March 20.—Balked in their desire to get the measure up today under a suspension of the rules, republican house leaders in charge of the compromise, soldiers' bonus bill still were determined tonight to put the measure through this week. Their expressed intention was to call it up Thursday, under a suspension of the rules, if possible; otherwise under a special rule, which probably would shut out amendments.

Before the house met today, the whole situation was laid before President Harding at the white house by a committee of house leaders, but the executive declined to make any recommendation. Upon leaving the president's office Representative Mondell, of Wyoming, who headed the committee, issued this written statement:

"The legislative situation relating to the bonus bill was fully presented to the president, with detailed explanation of the provisions which remove the menace of the excessive drafts on the treasury in the immediate future and avoid any program of added taxation. The president went over the entire situation, with an appraisal of commitments made. He advised the committee that the legislation is a responsibility of congress and in view of expressions previously made he did not think it essential to offer any recommendation."

Rejects Proposal.

"Speaker Gillett also had an engagement with the president in the forenoon to discuss the question of a suspension of the rules, but the executive's conference with the house committee lasted so long that the speaker was obliged to forego his appointment in order to be at the capitol at noon to preside over the house. Upon reaching the capitol he made known to those in charge of the bonus legislation his decision not to entertain a

PEEPLIS IS DEAD FROM PNEUMONIA

Death of Prominent Business Man, After Short Illness, Comes as Shock to His Friends.

R. W. Peoples, vice president of the King Hardware company and well-known Atlanta resident, died at 221 Peachtree street, died at a private hospital at 9 o'clock Monday evening, after an illness lasting only a week. His death came as a shock to his family and friends in the city. He was suffering from double pneumonia.

Mr. Peoples was 46 years of age. Since early manhood he had made his home in the city, coming here more than twenty years ago from Evansville, Ind.

He had won recognition as one of Atlanta's most substantial citizens and was prominently connected in commercial affairs of the city, being vice president of King Hardware company for a number of years.

He is survived by his widow, five daughters, Misses Elizabeth, Ada, Gertrude, Ruth Peoples and baby Laura; parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Peoples, of Evansville, Ind.; two sisters, Miss Helen Peoples, of Evansville, Ind., and Mrs. C. K. Roeder, of Shawneetown, Ill.; and two brothers, C. J. Peoples, of Chicago, and William M. Peoples, of Evansville.

The funeral will be held in the chapel of H. M. Patterson & Son at 2 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, the Rev. R. O. Flinn officiating. The body will be taken to Evansville for interment.

An escort composed of the following will accompany the body, leaving at 8:30 o'clock at night: L. D. Wilson, Howard Jackson, J. R. Webb, J. P. Braxwell, R. B. Ball and John McGee.

AFTER HOT FIGHT, P. O. MONEY BILL PASSES IN SENATE

Measure Is Increased
$63,309,000 Over Amount
Carried When It Passed
House.

BILL CARRIES FUND FOR N. Y. MAIL TUBES

Bitter Attack Is Made on Item for Gotham by Several Democrats, Charging
"Steal."

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.
Washington, March 20.—The post-office appropriation bill, carrying $623,775,000, was passed late today by the senate after a heated fight. The measure carries $63,309,000 more than as passed by the house, $50,000,000 of the increase going for federal highway aid.

The bill also carries provisions for restoring to service the New York pneumatic mail tubes and for continuing the New York to San Francisco air mail service. The vote on the tube amendment was 39 to 19 and came after a bitter attack had been made on the proposition by several democrats. The $50,000,000 was accepted by the senate without debate and without a roll call.

Fight on Appropriations.

A fight centering around postoffice appropriations, originating early in discussion of the bill, resulted just before adjournment of the senate in the introduction by Senator Harrison, democrat, Mississippi, of a resolution calling on the president to supply the senate with the number of executive orders he has issued removing postoffices from civil service classification. The resolution went over under the rules.

The fight which culminated in the Harrison resolution was precipitated by an amendment increasing the number of postal inspectors from 420 to 520, a move which Mr. Harrison charged was to make more places for republicans. The debate quickly entered the subject of postmaster appointments and the president was charged with having removed Marion, Ohio, office from civil service by executive order so that he could appoint the postmaster in his home town.

This amendment involved $235,000, but it required two hours of discussion and a record vote, 40 to 21, before it was finally put into the bill.

"Near Drunken Steal."

As for the New York tubes, Senator McKellar, democrat, Tennessee, claimed that the senate was giving its approval to something "that is dangerously near a brazen steal of federal funds." The tubes had many defenders, however, and the argument that they were necessary to relieve congestion and provide better service

American Legion Works to Provide Jobs for Veterans

Tent Is Opened at Five Points for Men Seeking Positions.

More than three hundred ex-servicemen of Atlanta applied at the tent of the American Legion at Five Points to get work on the first day of the legion's week's drive to obtain employment for jobless veterans.

Evan P. Howell, commander of Post 78, was in charge. He declares that the class of men who came to the tent for assistance was a revelation to him, and would be a revelation to 90 per cent of the people of Atlanta.

"I should say that fully on-half of these men were men who before the war had been big wage earners," said Commander Howell. "Today they are willing to do anything that will provide them and theirs with daily sustenance. Men of education and refinement, qualified for any sort of work, were eager for jobs as common laborers—anything to keep them from starvation or from crime. It's a condition that the people of this city who are studying our economics might well go into thoroughly."

"Many of these men are in actual destitute condition—and it isn't because they haven't tried to find work. They have tried night and day—some of them for months. Lots of them have been forced to don their old uniforms to keep away the cold, and these are the men that this country cheered so lustily as they went away to fight for the people back home."

As fast as the men are registered, they are classified by the legion forces on duty and a committee of the legion will prepare immediately a list of employers who will give ex-servicemen preferential employment.

This work will continue through the rest of the week.

Constitution Begins Official U. S. Radio Market Service; Opens News Department

WGM—The Constitution's radio-telephone broadcasting service—got busy last night with its daily government wireless market quotations, crop conditions, estimates, receipts and stocks, weather forecasts and warnings, Arlington time, state and general news flashes and so on.

This service was opened at 6 p. m., running to 9:30 p. m., and at 9 p. m., running to 9:30 p. m.

The service will be repeated every evening at the time periods named, and will be supplemented from time to time by entertainment and educational features, announcements for which will always be published in advance.

The Constitution begins today a regular department devoted to radio-telephone news and views and reviews, including timely discussions of technical matters relating to the great science of wireless telephony, the daily air programs, questions and answers about radiophoning, both for the amateur and professional; and general radio information, including letters from "listeners in," from radio clubs and club members; and strides being made in this modern development that is sweeping the country and taking hold of the public like wildfire.

This department of The Constitution will be found instructive and entertaining by thousands of readers, whether they are today equipped with radio receiving sets, or are or ever expect to be radio fans, or not.

It is gratifying to find that WGM is being heard distinctly—"as clear as a bell"—as far away as the middle western states; and letters are pouring into The Constitution from Birmingham, Jacksonville, Columbia and other southeastern cities, as well as from all over Georgia, to the effect that the radio service of this paper is being heard and enjoyed highly by individuals and groups.

Some of these letters and messages appear today in the regular radio department of this paper.

JEWS NEAR GOAL IN $100,000 DRIVE

Total of $84,395 Already Raised and Plan Is Proposed to Raise Remainder of Amount.

With only six more days until the close, the Atlanta Jewish relief campaign Monday made rapid strides toward its $100,000 goal, according to Arthur I. Harris, city chairman. The total reported in the city up to Monday evening was $84,395, he announced.

Of this sum, which represents an increase of $4,725 over the $80,672 reported Saturday evening, $500 was subscribed by Jewish children who attended the Purim ball in the Standard club Saturday evening, $1,500 was subscribed by the people's relief committee, of which H. Kuniansky is secretary, and $1,723 was raised by the workers over Atlanta.

The remainder to be raised during the present week is $15,605, and Mr. Harris announced Monday that he expects the greater portion, if not all of this amount to be subscribed through the Hundred-Dollar club that has been suggested by a number of leading citizens, both Jews and Gentiles. "This plan is, for all who can possibly afford it, to increase their subscriptions by $100, at the rate of $10 each month for ten months. If 150 contributors do this the balance of the quota will be raised with the exception of a few hundred dollars."

Georgia Campaign Progress.

The campaign in other parts of Georgia is progressing rapidly and favorably, Armand May, state chairman, announced. The total reported over the state to date is well over $130,000, he stated. Athens raised $6,000 on the first day of its campaign. Thomasville has contributed $1,500, and Monroe $251.50.

Subscriptions of $50 or more announced Monday include:

French Dry Cleaning company, $50; Mrs. L. B. Joel, $50, additional; Mrs. H. C. Korts, $100; Rosser, Slaton & Hopkins, $100; Frank Revon & Son, $50; Mrs. Simon Selig, Jr., $100; W. H. A. Girls, $100; American Mills employees, $125; Atlanta Milling company, $100; Maurice Bernard, $100; Bruno Bukofsky, $250; Asa Candler, $50; Oscar Elias, $200; H. Finkelstein, $50; Albert Haas, $50; J. M. Hugh, $100; Lucian Harris, $50.

Jewish Progressive club, $74.56; H. Kaplan, $50; Nat Kaiser Investment company, $50; Benedick Kobish, $50; Martin Nash Motor company, $50; Arthur Montgomery, $50; Piedmont laundry, $50; J. Rosenberg, $100; J. Rausin, $100; Seitzger & Sons, $50; James Stein, $100; Ben Steele, $100; Mrs. A. E. Thornton, $50; Timms Jewelry company, $50; Cedar Woolford, $100; Henry and Sidney Wellhouse, $200, and S. Yelowitz, $50.

Important Arrests Imminent.

That arrest of some prominent individuals in Florida commercial circles was imminent was indicated by Prohibition Commissioner Haynes Monday, after receiving a report from Colonel Nutt. It would be idle to stop at the arrest of a few of the go-betweens, however. More could be obtained. The real test of the government's intentions will come when it is disclosed who is to be arrested and to which "class" in the traffic they belong.

For, so dignified a profession has it become that the bootleggers are divided into "classes"—the financiers.

CHARGE OF SECRET BRITISH PACT MADE

Statement by N. Y. Attorney Says Secret Anglo-American Understanding Was Reached.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.
Washington, March 20.—Senate debate on the four-power Pacific treaty touched its high water mark of bitterness today in an exchange resulting from suggestions of a secret British-American understanding for future co-operation.

Aroused by recurring references to such an international understanding after its existence had been directly denied, Senator Lodge, of Massachusetts, the republican leader and a member of the American arms delegation, took the floor and in a voice shaken by emotion declared he could not longer be patient under attacks which seemed to question his patriotism and impugn his honor.

Replying in a fashion scarcely less dramatic, Senator Robinson, democrat, Arkansas, an opponent of the treaty, told the senate he questioned no one's motives but proposed to do his patriotic duty as he saw it without permitting himself to be "intimidated by outbursts of indignation." He remained convinced, he said, that both of the senate's representatives on the delegation were "amazingly ignorant" of some of the things done at the conference. The exchange between Senators Lodge and Robinson, which was part of a long debate now broadcast with charges of "landslide," "untruths" and "propaganda," took place shortly after the republican leader and other prominent figures in his party organization had canvassed the whole treaty situation at a white house conference with President Harding. Beside Mr. Lodge, those who were present included Chairman John T. Adams of the republican national committee; Senator McCormick, of Illinois, chairman of the party's senatorial campaign committee; and Senator Curtis, of Kansas, republican whip of the senate.

Calls in Democrats.

The presence of so many party chiefs at the conference led to the impression that they discussed with the president the possible injection of the arms conference treaties into the coming congressional campaign, but some of the senators who attended said afterward that the primary purpose was to give Mr. Harding the latest information as to the line-up on the four-power treaty ratification.

Betty's Effort To Visit DuPre Ends in Failure

Woman in Case Makes Unexpected Call at Fulton
Tower Monday.

Betty Andrews, the woman in the Frank DuPre case, who is under suspension from her job as a statutory officer, made an unexpected visit to Atlanta Monday and left the city as unceremoniously as she came.

Betty arrived sometime around 2 o'clock from Gainesville, Ga., where her father, in whose care she had been paroled, lives. She presented herself at the tower and asked to see DuPre, the Peachtree bandit now under death sentence for the murder of Irvy C. Walker, Pinkerton detective. Those in charge at the jail very promptly refused to allow her to enter, even after she had shown a letter purporting to be from Judge W. B. Sloan, judge of the city court of Gainesville, addressed to Bob Holland, jailor at the tower, asking that she be allowed to see DuPre.

The girl then went to the courthouse and told Judge Humphries that the jailors would not let her see DuPre and asked him to arrange for an interview. Judge Humphries, who was on his way at the time to speak to the Women's Missionary society of Trinity Methodist church "On Crime and Youthful Criminals," ordered her into the custody of Sheriff Lowry until after he had made his talk.

When Judge Humphries returned to the courthouse, he ordered the girl brought to his chambers, where he explained to her that in suspending her sentence of one year on the state prison farm he was trying to help her get away from prison surroundings and to get a new start.

"As for your seeing DuPre," he told the girl, "you will never do it with my consent." Betty told Judge Humphries that her father had bought her

CHARTER CHANGES BRING HOT DEBATE IN CITY COUNCIL

Resolution Calling for

MANY CHANGES URGED BY SIXTH WARD FORUM

Battle for Place of Police Commissioner From the Third Ward Is Won by
I. E. Wilcox.

Warm debate on proposed charter changes, a proposal to turn over to the board of education for school purposes the city stockade property, and a hot battle for the position of police commissioner from the third ward in which I. E. Wilcox won over Thomas S. Skipper, were principal features of council's session Monday afternoon.

The Sixth Ward Civic forum presented a resolution containing numerous proposed amendments to the present charter, which was referred to the charter commission.

Councilman Edgar Watkins, Councilman J. O. Wood and Alderman W. B. Duvall offered a resolution calling for a preferential vote on all charters submitted at an election on May 3, the only condition being that each charter, to be placed on the ticket, must be accompanied by a petition bearing the signatures of at least 500 voters.

A motion to lay the measure on the table until the next regular meeting was adopted.

Couch Opens Debate.

Councilman Couch opened debate with the announcement that he intended to oppose any charter that set up a "government of autocracy instead of democracy."

"There are certain people in this town who are forever and eternally criticizing the government," he continued. "This city has grown as no other southern city. Its credit is the best in the country. And it's strange that the very people who are clamoring for a change are the people who have lived and prospered here."

Speaking in reply Councilman Watkins declared that he was advocating no particular charter, but a fundamental principle of democracy, asserting that council had no right to arrogate to itself power to say what sort of charter the people should have.

"Just lay aside your prejudices," he said, "and say we are going to give the people of Atlanta the first opportunity they have ever had to choose what they want. No committee of fourteen, acting by a bare majority, has the right to say what kind of charter the people shall have."

He stated that if the resolution was passed by the next regular meeting the different charter plans with the requisite number of signatures attached, could be ready for presentation.

ESCAPED CONVICT SLAIN IN TRENTON

Man Killed While Rob-

Known as John Nolan.

Identification of the body of a slain yeoman in Trenton, N. J., as that of J. C. Moore, escaped Georgia convict, disclosed the fact Monday night, according to Atlanta police records, that Moore was better known as John Nolan, and had been sent up from the Fulton superior court here in June, 1920, for burglary. His widow identified the body after it had been in the morgue all day, following a battle royale Monday between officers and robbers who had blown open a safe and were engaged in looting it of its contents when surprised. Moore was killed by a bullet from Constable C. M. Cronch's revolver, according to dispatches. His companion, L. K. Bavis, was arrested.

Moore, or Nolan, as he was known in Atlanta, figured prominently in an escape from the state prison at Milledgeville December 15, 1921. With Charlie Hays, who was serving a 20-year term in connection with the robbery of a College Park bank, and Julius McIntyre, also from Fulton county, who was serving a one-year

Walter Taylor to Run for Tax Receiver—John W.
Armistead Will Hold
Position Temporarily.

Dr. William L. Gilbert, chairman of the Fulton county commission, announced Monday night that he is a candidate for tax receiver of Fulton county, to succeed the late T. M. Armistead, who died last Saturday. Dr. Gilbert will resign at a special called meeting of the board Tuesday morning and will immediately send his resignation to Governor Hardwick.

At the meeting Tuesday, which has been called for 9 o'clock, John W. Armistead, son of the late tax receiver, will be named to take charge of the office for thirty days, until the election of a successor. A special election will be called by the ordinary within thirty days to fill this vacancy.

Following the creation of a vacancy on the board of commissioners, it was stated Tuesday night that Virlyn B. Moore, a member of the Fulton delegation in the legislature and chairman of the Fulton county board of education, will announce as a candidate to fill the unexpired term of Dr. W. L. Gilbert. According to the law, the ordinary will have to call an election to fill this vacancy on the board.

Judge T. H. Jeffries, ordinary of Fulton county, stated Monday night that he had not decided on a date for this special election, but that he would set the date within the next thirty days at some time agreeable to all the candidates.

Other candidates who have been mentioned are Fred B. Gibbs, now deputy tax collector; W. H. Abbott, for six years an assistant to Mr. Armistead in the tax receiver's office; J. L. McCord, well-known business man, who was a candidate for the place two years ago, and Walter L. Taylor, city clerk for ten years.

Long Service in County.

Dr. Gilbert is one of the best known men in Fulton county. Thirty-two years ago he was the only physician employed by Fulton county. He looked after the convicts, the prisoners at the jail, and the almshouse patients. Since that time he has seen the number of physicians grow from one to seven.

He is now serving the last year of his second four-year term as member of Fulton county commission. In both his races for the commission he led the ticket over a large field. Before that he was chairman of the city board of health for a number of years.

Dr. Gilbert will be 56 years old March 22. He has been a consistent member of the Methodist church for more than 25 years, is a Scottish Rite Mason, a Shriner, and an Elk. In the event of his election, Dr. Gilbert stated Monday that he will devote all his time to the duties of the office. He further stated that he did not think it was fair to the taxpayers for him to hold office as commissioner and run for another office at the same time and for that reason he would hand in his resignation.

While Dr. Gilbert has been urged to make the race for tax receiver several times he has refused because of his great respect for Mr. Armistead, who was an old confederate veteran serving in the same cause as did Dr. Gilbert's father. But since Mr. Armistead's death Dr. Gilbert declared that he felt at liberty to run for the vacancy.

W. A. PARKER, SR., DIES ON MONDAY

William A. Parker, Sr., president and general manager of the Beck & Gregg Hardware Co., and one of Atlanta's most prominent business men and influential citizens, died at a local hospital Monday morning, following an unsuccessful operation for appendicitis.

The news of Mr. Parker's death came as a shock to his many friends in the city. His illness, beginning Thursday, was not regarded as critical. He remained at home Friday and Saturday, and it was not until Sunday that the necessity for an operation became apparent.

Mr. Parker was born in Social Circle, Ga., in 1864, coming to Atlanta at an early age. He saw the city rise from the destruction that followed Sherman's march to its present size and importance. At the age of 14 he entered the service of Beck & Gregg and became president a few years ago, when he bought out the interest of the retiring president, Mr. Beck. He was a member of the First Baptist church.

His widow, who was Miss Albert Abbott, and two children, William A. Parker, Jr., and Mrs. J. Turner Carson survive him, as well as a granddaughter 2 years old.

Mr. Parker also is survived by his mother, Mrs. E. D. Parker, of Atlanta; two sisters, Mrs. L. M. Thio-deau, of Baltimore, Md., and Mrs. W. J. Freeman, of Atlanta; and three brothers, J. H. Parker, of Atlanta; Lieutenant C. E. Parker, of the United States navy, and W. F. Parker, of Florida.

Funeral services will be held at the First Baptist church at 3 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, Dr. Charles W. Daniel officiating.

Officers of the Beck & Gregg Hardware company will act as an honorary escort. The pallbearers will be W. W. E. Jones, Norman Sharp, Hugh Willet, Robert Gregg and Guy Mitchell. Interment will be in West View cemetery. Barclay & Brandon in charge.

Chaloner Plans To Keep Country Boys on the Farm

BY A. HERBERT, JR.

John Armstrong Chaloner, of New York and Cobham, Va., known all over the United States as the author of the laconic inquiry, "Who's looney now?" was a visitor in Atlanta Monday for the second time in as many months, this time on an entirely different mission.

He is now, and has been for some months past, interested in a plan which has already received the stamp of approval of six state superintendents of education for placing moving pictures in rural communities, preferably in the rural public schools, in order to check the movement from the farms to the cities by furnishing the recreation which the farmer lacks; to extend visual instructions in the rural public schools, and to turn the schools into community centers, thereby vastly increase their scope of influence and service.

Mr. Chaloner stated that State Superintendent of Education, Mr. L. B. Brittain had spoken highly of his plan, had placed his indorsement upon it. Mr. Brittain's approval, he stated, was the seventh out of the eleven southern states which have officially sanctioned his project.

Protects His Labor.

In December, 1920, said Mr. Chaloner, he conceived the plan to prevent depopulation of the farms after his own help had been lured away by the amusements afforded by the towns and cities. He had conducted a large dairy business on his 400-acre estate known as "The Merry Mills," two miles from Cobham, Va. The extent of his business reached to Richmond, 100 miles away. He was therefore confronted with an up-to-date plant with no help to run it. He then decided upon the plan of competing with the amusement places of nearby towns and cities by converting an up-to-date barn into a moving picture theater. He installed modern machines in his barn, together with electric lights and heaters, and seats to accommodate three hundred people. Electric fans were also installed to keep the place cool in summer. No admission fee was charged. His theater was always crowded to capacity. The press of the nation broadcasted the news throughout the entire country, and his experiment was watched with the greatest enthusiasm.

He decided to close his theater when summer came, but was prevailed upon to keep it open, and was even asked to charge an admission fee in order that the theater might remain open. He decided to charge 5 cents for children and 10 cents for adults, and during the months of May, June and July, the theater took in $1,000 with shows running only twice a week. His theater is known as "The Merry Mills Community Center Movie."

Long Itinerary.

Mr. Chaloner's itinerary will carry him to every state in the union, even into the very heart of Alaska, and will not be completed until June, 1922. He has received a special invitation from T. H. Harris, state superintendent of education at Baton Rouge, La., to appear before the state legislature with a view to the enactment of a bill which will appropriate the sum of $10,000 for a "community moving picture center."

Charges of Bigamy Against Young Couple Before Jury Today

Marietta, Ga., March 20.—(Special.)—This was the bells of a small Georgia town. He was a man from the city. They met and love led them into marriage—a happy marriage for three years.

Now she and W. F. Verhine, of Atlanta, face charges of bigamy before the Cobb county grand jury, which will consider their cases today.

Grover G. Yarbrough, the man who says he visited the little town of Woodstock and these wooed and wedded Miss Mattie Lou Dempsey, five years ago, is the accused.

a ticket and put her on the train, and that she expected to spend the night in Atlanta with an aunt. She also told him that she had taken up a collection amounting to $5.50, on the streets of Gainesville for DuPre and wanted to give that to him.

Judge Humphries told her that she must take up any more collections and declared that as long as she did not know she was breaking her parole by coming to Atlanta to see DuPre he would let her retreating to the custody of her father in Gainesville. She was turned over to a deputy sheriff, who was instructed to put her on the next train for Gainesville.

CHARTER CHANGES BRING HOT DEBATE

tion and council could then act in ample time for the proposed election. He explained that the method of voting a ticket on which several characters were named would be as simple as a matter as marking a ballot when four or five candidates were running for the office.

Councilman Wood, who is a member of the charter commission, said he considered the Choate charter a "pretty good plan," but stated he favored the city's present charter.

Forum Amendments.

In its proposed amendments the Sixth Ward Civic Forum called for abolishment of all boards, except the school board and Carnegie library board; that the council meet weekly; that councilmen and aldermen receive a salary of $1,000 per annum; that department heads make monthly reports in person to the general council; that a statement be made of all receipts and disbursements itemized each month and published in the daily newspapers; that council have the right to lower the tax rate, but not increase it; that all department heads be elected for four years; that the board of education be increased to one member from each ward; that the board furnish free text books for the grammar schools.

The resolution to convert the stockade property to school purposes was introduced by Councilman J. C. Murphy. Members divided sharply over its suitability as a girls' high school site. Some thought it too remote. Others said it would be objectionable because of once having been a prison site. On the other hand, Mr. Murphy's resolution received strong support. The council finally voted 17 to 10 to refer the measure to the school board for approval or rejection.

Police Board Election.

On account of the illness of Councilman Fred C. Woodall, one of the Third ward delegation, council adopted his request transmitted through Councilman Watkins, that the police board election be postponed, but later in the session Councilman J. R. Nutting moved to reopen the matter and started a fight for immediate election, which was successful by the vote of 16 to 12.

Mr. Woodall was scheduled to nominate Thomas S. Skipper. Alderman Chosewood and Councilman Stone had announced they would nominate I. E. Wilcox. When Mr. Watkins moved for postponement, stating that Mr. Woodall was ill and unable to be present, Mr. Chosewood said:

"If he gave out the interview I saw in The Constitution he ought to have the same throat." He denied Mr. Woodall's charges that he was under the influence of Aldine Chambers in his support of Mr. Wilcox and declared that "as far as I'm concerned it's a lie." The vote was 21 to 9 for Wilcox.

Monday night Mr. Woodall renewed his charges that Mr. Chosewood was influenced by Mr. Chambers.

Council adopted a resolution requiring each engineering and contracting firm engaged for construction of the Spring street viaduct to give a surety bond.

A measure was passed calling on the Atlanta and West Point railroad to construct at its own expense a viaduct over its tracks at Berne street, in conformity with an old contract recently discovered by the city. In event the company should refuse, the city attorney is instructed to begin action to enforce compliance.

Councilman Couch introduced an ordinance to repeal the present measure passed in 1920 denying admission to Grady hospital of those persons able to pay for treatment, unless in cases of emergency. The measure was referred to the ordinance committee.

The ordinance introduced by Councilman W. M. Ehrbridge to bar children from playing in the streets was defeated.

A resolution by the fifth ward delegation asking that the name of Bellwood avenue be changed to "Bankhead highway," was referred to the street committee.

W. W. Lotzpeich was awarded a contract to place a new floor in the Auditorium. He bid $3,900 and promised to have the work done by grand opera week.

The offer of the Druid Hills Land company of a number of small tracts in Druid Hills for public parks, was referred to the park board.

Sale of Boulevard School.

Council accepted the recommendation of a conference committee that Boulevard school be sold to Morris Brown university for $60,000.

A resolution by Councilman Claude Buchanan to appropriate $10,000 for the purchase of automatic sewers flushers was adopted.

The ordinance to pave Marietta-

Decatur streets were placed on final passage and adopted. Work is expected to start immediately.

Mayor Key's veto of the ordinance allowing the Georgia Railway and Power company to construct manholes in the streets without conditions or restrictions was sustained.

Communications from the Fulton county commission agreeing to the following requests by the city were read:

To pave West Sixth street from Hemphill avenue to Cassan street; to grade South Delta place between Fair street and Glenwood avenue; to grade Oliver street from Bellwood avenue to Neal street; to grade Barnett street from St. Charles avenue to Highland avenue; to grade Eighth street from North Jackson to Bedford place; to pave Butler street in front of Grady hospital; to pave Capitol avenue from East Hunter to East Mitchell street; to grade and pave Miller Reed avenue and Luther street; to chert Longley avenue from Niles to Bailey street.

Those Floors of Yours Will You Varnish or Paint Them?

As desirable as are varnished floors, still there is a certain undeniable charm about the painted floor that is reminiscent of the contentment filled homes of our grandparents. So let's paint more of our floors.

But let's not think we must use cheerless drabs and dingy browns because they wear better. They don't. Let's use the smiling colors; the warm rest-giving colors such as are found in our Hard-Drying Floor Paint. But you say: "Why should I use your paint in preference to any other?" Suppose, in answer, we should tell you the various materials that go into it. Likewise, the many milling processes it goes through in the making. Would you be any the wiser? It would, of course, be impressive, but would it really be convincing?

What, then, is it that would carry conviction? Isn't it so, that what it has done for others is the only real way you can tell what it will do for you? All right, then, the thing to do is—send you about the painting and varnishing experiences of a man and his wife, covering twenty years. During that time they had a lot of hard nuts to crack; did a lot of experimenting, the benefit of which is all yours. They found out what paints and finishes to use, and exactly when, where and why. They tell you all about it in a delightful, chatty way, quite their own. Once you own it, you won't want to loan it. That's the kind of book the Happy Happening is. Send 10 cents for it.

CLAIMS HE KILLED IN SELF-DEFENSE

A plea of self-defense will be made by Cliff Mayson, 57 years old, of 150 Nelson street, who was arrested Monday morning by City Detectives Bentley and Satterfield at 25 North Mayson avenue, charged with stabbing to death George Ratterree, 65 years old, Saturday night at the corner of Haynes and Peters streets. It was stated by Mayson when interviewed at the jail.

Mayson, for whom the police had been searching since the fatal stabbing of Ratterree late Saturday night, admitted doing the cutting but denies the statement of eye-witnesses to the effect that the killing was done with out provocation.

"I saw Ratterree as I came out of the restaurant and spoke to him as I had known him for some time," Mayson said. "Ratterree replied by telling me to keep my mouth shut, and when I asked him what was the matter, he struck me under the chin, knocking me down. As I got up I saw that he was coming toward me with a knife, and to protect myself I cut him. I only intended to keep Ratterree from killing me, and did not intend to kill him," Mayson said in conclusion.

City detectives who have been working on the case state that Mayson has been a drug addict for many years and that he was under treatment of physicians in the government at the time he was taken into custody. Mayson denies that he was doped when he cut Ratterree, but declares that he remembers all the details of the stabbing, which he claims justify his act.

It is thought probably that the Fulton county grand jury will investigate the killing Tuesday and an early trial is expected by the officers who have handled the case.

TWO ARE CONVICTED FOR SALE OF DRUGS

Joe Harper, of Atlanta, and Arthur Cochran, of Birmingham, arrested recently in Birmingham on a charge of violating the Harrison narcotic act, were convicted in the United States district court Monday morning, and sentenced by Judge Samuel H. Sibley to a year and federal prison.

The sale took place in Atlanta, it is said, which gave the federal court for the northern district of Georgia jurisdiction in the case.

Clint W. Hager, United States district attorney, handled the prosecution which resulted in the conviction of the two drug dispensers.

Dan Williams, alias "Ducey Dan," who is said by narcotic inspectors to be one of the biggest dealers in drugs in Atlanta, will come up for trial in the federal court Tuesday morning.

Petition in Bankruptcy

A voluntary petition in bankruptcy was filed by the Dyke Restaurant company, doing business as Mrs. Mayson's restaurant, Monday morning in the office of the clerk of the federal court. The petition showed liabilities amounting to $1,640 and assets totaling $2,200. B. P. Gambrell is attorney for the petitioner.

Robbed of Happiness Through One Little Mistake

SHE could never understand it. She was so wonderfully pretty, danced nicely, had a pleasing disposition—yet somehow she was extremely unpopular. Then one day she found out—and never had she received such a shock!

It was—her breath. A delicate subject, yet it was a fact that she was guilty of unpleasant breath—and she never even suspected it. ## Hamilton Holt Will Make Talk At Emory Today

Hamilton Holt, editor of The Independent, a nationally known magazine, will deliver the principal address at the spring term convocation exercises of Emory university, to be held in the chapel of the Theological building at 11 o'clock this morning. Diplomats and certificate holders will be awarded eleven students of the college and graduate departments of the institution, among whom are two Atlanta boys.

The exercises will be attended by members of the faculty, students and friends of the university. Mr. Holt will also deliver a second address at 8 o'clock Tuesday evening in the chapel.

Lieutenant Shaw Ready for Trial By Police Board

T. D. Shaw, lieutenant of detectives, now suspended under charges of incompetency, will begin his final fight for reinstatement at 7:30 o'clock Tuesday night when the board of police commissioners takes up the trial of the officer on charges growing out of the bunco investigation.

The case was called for trial a few weeks ago, but the police board postponed the case to ask council for an appropriation to bring several witnesses back to Atlanta. The request was declined, and both sides are now ready for trial.

The charges of incompetency are the direct result of the alleged failure to locate the fake stock exchange at 251 1/2 West Peachtree street, when two visitors to Atlanta reported to headquarters a swindle involving several thousand dollars. Solicitor Boykin said that Holt's office afterward raided the rooms and discovered an elaborate swindling outfit.

Shaw has been vindicated of charges preferred against him in federal court, and a case based on the same evidence used in the government case was thrown out of state court. The court charges had no connection with the charge on which the police board will try him.

The board should consider a large number of applications for membership on the force. Several officers will be tried for trivial offenses.

DEMOCRATS CUT G. O. P. MAJORITY IN MAINE VOTING

Augusta, Me., March 20.—John E. Nelson, republican, was elected to congress by approximately 5,000 majority in a special election here Monday night. The election was a republican victory, according to unofficial returns.

The vacancy which Nelson will fill was caused by the resignation of John A. Peters, who has accepted a federal district judgeship.

Great political importance is attached to the election, as the democrats made an unusually strong fight in a section that has always been republican. Democrats based their campaign principally on the bonus and treaty questions.

Charge of Cruelty By Insane Husband Questioned in Suit

Do acts of cruelty to the wife by the husband, while he is insane, constitute such cruel treatment under the law as will serve for divorce grounds? The question will have to be decided by the Fulton superior court in passing upon a demurrer filed Monday by Len R. Guillevain, representing W. W. Moore, in a divorce suit which was recently filed against his wife, Mrs. Susie Moody, of 537 Capitol avenue.

In her petition for divorce, which was filed by Attorneys Etheridge, Sams & Etheridge, Mrs. Moody alleges acts of cruel treatment by Mr. Moody, and then further alleges that she believed by reason of these acts that he was insane, that physicians pronounced him insane, and that she had him committed to the state sanitarium at Milledgeville, from which institution he has been discharged.

In the demurrer, Attorney Guillevain contends that the acts of cruelty alleged in the petition do not furnish any grounds for divorce, because the petition shows that Mr. Moody, the defendant, was sane at the time he is alleged to have mistreated his wife.

The hearing on the demurrer is expected at this term of the court.

Lot for Residence To Be Offered Free At Big Exposition

A residence lot on Lexington avenue, in the new Stewart avenue subdivision, will be given away by the Adair Realty company during the "Own Your Home" exposition, according to announcement by Hunter Perry, sales manager for the Adair company.

The lot, which has a market value of $1,000, will be given to some visitor to the show without cost or condition. No admission will be required to the exposition, which will be held May 8 to 12 under the auspices of the Atlanta Real Estate board, of which Ward Wight is president.

ALL TROOPS ON RHINE ORDERED HOME JULY 1

Washington, March 20.—All American troops will be out of Germany by July 1 under orders issued by Secretary Weeks today by direction of President Harding. About 2,000 officers and men are affected, as the remainder of Major General Allen's command in the Coblenz bridgehead zone on the Rhine already were under home orders.

The announcement of the decision for complete American evacuation of occupied territory in Germany was made by Secretary Weeks as his first act on return to the war department from a three weeks' vacation in Florida. He indicated that the step was intended to comply with the policy previously announced of withdrawing the Rhine forces as quickly as possible. It had no relation, he said, to the war department's recent decision to reduce the size of the army, nor did it result from the correspondence between the state department and the federal government on the subject of demand for a share in German reparations payments on account of the maintenance of troops in Germany.

The original order of the president, it was pointed out, directed that all troops on the Rhine, with the exception of not more than the single infantry regiment and artillery and other artillery detachment be brought home in army transports as rapidly as possible. The movement is now in progress and the work of the two transports running in the service will be continued under today's instructions, said Mr. Weeks, until the remaining troops also have been returned, which will be before July 1.

HEWITT CHAMBERS DENIES CHARGE MADE BY WOODALL

Stating that his brother, Aldine Chambers, has been in Washington three weeks, Hewitt W. Chambers, of Councilman Fred C. Woodall that his influence was at work in behalf of I. E. Wilcox for third ward police commissioner, Hewitt W. Chambers issued the following statement Monday night:

"Mr. Woodall's charges are more than erroneous, they are childish. When Aldine left the city more than three weeks ago he was not cognizant of the fact that Mr. McClelland, contemplated resigning.

"Since leaving here he has not communicated with me at all, or with anybody else to my knowledge. He is still absent in Washington."

Vocational Students Hampered by Failure Of Deficiency Bill

Vocational training students in the city, of whom there are said to be more than 100, are in a straightened circumstances due to the failure of congress to pass the deficiency appropriation bill. This has resulted in a tie-up of all government checks to students taking training in colleges and professional schools under the vocational provision.

The students, many of whom are veterans who were injured during the world war. As the majority of them and their families depend upon the semi-monthly check for their support, the delay in payment has resulted in no little hardship for them.

There are about 40 vocational training students at Emory university. It is understood that there is a much larger number at Georgia Tech. A total of 105,000 students in the United States have been seriously hampered by the failure of congress to pass the bill.

LEADING FIGURES HEAD LIQUOR BUSINESS

The wholesalers, the retailers and finally the "bootleggers" or peddlers. The "financiers" or operators direct the work, the "wholesalers" cooperate with the "operators" in gaining markets through the "retailers," who, in turn, work up trade, in addition to regular customers, through the "bootleggers."

Many Profits.
Along this line profits have to be distributed until a case of liquor, originally purchased at the rate of $18 a case, turns up to the average buyer from a bootlegger in Florida for from $47 to $65 a case, according to the brand, or higher if purchased from the bootlegger. This same case, after being transported to other cities, would command from $100 to $130 a case.

For example, government agents found that genuine Gordon gin could be procured for $47 a case in any leading city; Lawson or five-star Hux & Hux Scotch for $65 a case and Johnny Walker about the same.

The troubles of the government in running down the traffic, rests in the reluctance of protection given it. Two examples of this protection were given me personally. A prominent official of one of Florida's leading cities said:

All Knew Facts.
"There apparently is little attempt on the part of authorities to curb the traffic, and are cognizant of it. But it has become the leading trade or another. Night after night truck men individuals are involved one way or another. After night, after night, loads of liquor roll through the city's streets until the houses actually shake. Everyone knows what it is. Some of it continues on its way safely, cross country to distant states. The residents generally would favor stamping out this traffic but direct powerlessness in the unseen hands directing it."

As a second instance of the difficulty in chasing the traffic down, it is alleged that many of the motor-boats utilized by the prohibition enforcement investigators suddenly develop engine trouble, leaks and other deficiencies which make their speed inadequate to meet the demands upon them.

Smuggling Ships.

Nutt's report to Haynes here Monday declared in part:

"Our investigation discovered that many of the operators owned their own smuggling ships. They would make a run to a point near Nassau, Bimini or Gun Key, meet a schooner laden with liquor, make purchases at the average price of $18 a case, return the next night and resell the liquor at a profit, and receive double the price from their purchasers. Operators discussed transactions with us like bankers. Indeed, several of them gave bankers references, and in two instances, after negotiations were closed, had leading bankers hold the purchase price in trust and sign contracts to the effect:

"Will the government arrest the bankers along with others on the charge of being participants in a conspiracy to evade the law? There are elements in the whole situation which might well develop into a scandal at least—and possibly spread even further."

$75,000 Damages Asked By Former Aviation Veteran

Hearing on a suit of $75,000 damages brought by R. G. Adams, aviation corps veteran, now confined at the government hospital on Peachtree road, against the Georgia Railway and Power company, began in Fulton superior court Monday, before Judge George L. Bell.

Adams, who was brought into the courthouse on a stretcher and who testified from a cot, is asking for damages as the result of injuries he is alleged to have sustained when thrown from a street car on Luckie street near North avenue while en route to Georgia Tech just after his enlistment.

The case is being prosecuted by the federal government, which is represented by Attorney Murat Boyle, of Kansas City, special counsel for the government.

Adams, who was employed by the federal government as a former Congressman, to file suit for damages for him, and informed his attorney that he wanted to take out government insurance.

When this was done, his suit was taken in charge by the government, and if there is a recovery, the government will deduct what it has expended on medicine and hospital treatment for the patient.

Adams told the jury Monday that he came to Atlanta after enlistment in the aviation corps, having been ordered to the Georgia Tech training station for instruction. He said that he attempted to alight from a street car on Luckie street near North avenue and was thrown from the car to the ground and severely injured September 29, 1917, and had never sufficiently recovered to walk.

The most treacherous animals to deal with in captivity are said to be jaguars and black panthers.

HOW TO GET RID OF CATARRH

A Simple, Safe, Inexpensive Method That Clears Out the Head, Nose and Throat.

There is no disease more offensive or disagreeable, or no disease that will lead to as much serious trouble as catarrh. You can now get rid of it by a simple, safe, pleasant home remedy discovered by Dr. Blosser, a catarrh specialist.

Dr. Blosser's Remedy is composed of medicinal herbs, flowers and berries, which you smoke in a dainty pipe or cigarette. The smoke-vapor is inhaled into all the air passages of the head, nose, throat and lungs and carries medicine where sprays, douches and ointments cannot possibly reach. Its effect is soothing and healing, and is entirely harmless. It contains no cubes or tobacco, and may be used by women and children as well as men.

If you suffer from catarrh, asthma, catarrhal deafness, or are subject to frequent colds, try Dr. Blosser's Remedy. You may be had any well-stocked drug store in 25c and 1.25 sizes. Satisfactory results guaranteed.—(adv.)

Just remove the film

It is film that makes teeth dingy. That viscous coat clings to the teeth, enters crevices and stays. The tooth brush used in old ways has left much of it intact.

Film is what discolors, not the teeth. Film is the basis of tartar. Most people's teeth are kept cloudy by it, more or less.

Film also holds food substance which ferments and forms acids. It holds the acids in contact with the teeth to cause decay. It breeds millions of germs, and they, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea.

All these troubles have been constantly increasing. And most of them are traced to film which old-way brushing left on teeth.

What must be done

Dental science, after long research, has found two film combatants. Able authorities have proved their efficiency. Now leading dentists, here and abroad, are urging their daily use.

A new-type dentifrice has been created, called Pepsodent. It combines with modern requirements. And these film-fighting methods are embodied in it. Every use attacks the film in two effective ways.

Aids Nature too
Gummy starch deposits also cling to teeth, and often ferment and form acids. To digest them, Nature puts a starch digestant in the saliva. Every use of Pepsodent multiplies that starch digestant. Nature puts alkalis in the saliva to neutralize mouth acids. Each use of Pepsodent multiplies those alkalis.

Thus Pepsodent twice daily brings five desired effects. It has brought to millions, as it will to you, a new conception of clean teeth.

Send the coupon for a 10-Day Tube and watch the delightful effects. Note how clean the teeth feel after using. Mark the absence of the viscous film. See how teeth whiten as the film-costs disappear.

POPULAR SOPRANO ADVISES MOTHERS ON CARE OF BABY

"Being an old-fashioned mother is a woman's most glorious experience," said Alma Gluck, the popular soprano, when interviewed in New York upon her return to the concert stage last fall. She had been resting and looking after her two little daughters and her baby son, and the critics declared that never before had her voice been so truly glorious.

"Every woman loves her daughters of course, but I believe that there is a different sort of love that comes once only in a mother's heart and that is when her first son is born. It is positively the most wonderful experience," said Mrs. Gluck—or Mrs. Zimbalist, if you prefer.

The soprano has some ideas on the ever-absorbing subject of bringing up babies. "I believe," says the adorable Alma, "that mothers alone should be allowed to look after the little one in its earliest years. A baby needs cuddling just as much as it needs food, and no one can cuddle like a mother. I'm not so afraid of infant ailments as most young mothers, for something seems to tell me that if I worry and let myself grow unhappy it will in some way influence little Eftrem. When I am happy and hopeful and affectionate, the baby is, too."

Mr. Zimbalist and his charming wife will be heard together for the first time here when they appear in joint recital Friday night at the Auditorium, under the direction of the Salter Musical bureau. Seats are on sale at the Cable Piano company store.

When you get a square meal in this world, it always comes from a man who himself stands four square to all the winds that blow.—New Orleans States.

would promote the welfare and prosperity of the various communities of Georgia and of society in general, is a question that demands the most thoughtful attention not only of those who are immediately concerned, but of the business men and the people generally of this state.

Surely, as Mr. Henderson suggests, there is some means whereby this situation can be worked out; and his request that a meeting of the people of the state who are interested, be held "in order that we may take counsel together and discuss means to avert the disaster which is pending," should receive an earnest, enthusiastic and general response.

REGISTER!

Taking the position that "every person in Atlanta who is eligible should register and vote, honestly, conscientiously and intelligently," the Atlanta League of Women Voters has issued an appeal to the women of this city to qualify for participation in the next municipal election.

In a communication by the chairman of the registration committee of the league, which appears elsewhere upon this page, immediate registration is urged, in order that all Atlanta women may be able to exercise a voice in the adoption of a new city charter or of charter amendments, in the event that this matter is submitted to an election in the near future.

But regardless of issues to be voted upon, every citizen, man or woman, should be registered, if qualified for registration; and keep prepared at all times to exercise the elective franchise in every popular election—city, county, state or federal.

The electoral franchise is the highest privilege of citizenship under a democratic form of government, and willingness and ability to vote "honestly, conscientiously and intelligently" constitutes the very essence of good citizenship.

It is to be hoped, not only that every eligible woman in Atlanta, but every eligible man as well, will heed this appeal by the organized women voters, and lose no time in seeing to it that when election day comes the voters of this city may be recorded as being, so nearly as possible, "one hundred per cent registered and voting."

WORK FOR IDLE HANDS.

There is wisdom in the suggestion made by the special legislative committee of the American Federation of Labor a few days ago that congress enact legislation appropriating federal funds for the reclamation of arid and swamp lands, the improvement of inland waterways, etc., as a means of relieving the unemployment situation in a way that will insure to the permanent benefit of the people.

"We feel," says the committee report—"that while present dislocation exists throughout the world with industry stagnant and unemployment growing worse, it behooves us to work out a constructive program that will, in addition to alleviating the existing situation, lay the basis for a permanent work that will ever redound to the dignity and progress of our government and the welfare of our people."

The committee calls attention to the millions of acres of arid or semi-arid lands in the west which could be made productive by irrigation, and to other millions of swamp lands and land now subject to inundation in times of high water, awaiting reclamation by drainage.

It recommends that this reclamation work be done by the government, or with federal aid, taking the position that the increased taxable values of the reclaimed lands would soon reimburse the government for every dollar it might spend on such development projects.

Now is the logical time, as well as the traditional "physiological time," for work of this sort to be put under way.

Not only could it be made to supply work for tens of thousands of idle hands, thus aiding materially in bridging over the current period of business depression and after-war readjustment, but every dollar spent in it would add that much to the wealth and productive capacity of the country; and future generations, as well as those now living, would be benefited by it.

The suggestion merits friendly consideration, not only by congress and the administrative authorities in Washington, but by every state legislature and by county governments.

As to numerous ways proposed for raising the bonus money, The Philadelphia Record suggests, "Why not have Dempsey fight somebody every week or so, and devote the gate receipts to the fund?"

George Bailey Celebrates

Colonel George Bailey has written many prose-pieces, but he seldom branches out in rhyme, as the following poem which he has written in honor of the city of Atlanta in the Houston Post.

"The harp once mute on Tara's walls As if its soul were fled, Now sounds again 'Tara's halls As Erin paints things red."

Now sounds again 'Tara's halls As Erin paints things red. For glory thrills the land, While hearts again beat high for praise.

"Once more to chiefs and ladies gay The harp of Tara swells. Its joyful chords with peans play And Ireland's wearing bells."

Thus Freedom now with flag and furled Throes once a while a minstrel, As Erin's song sounds round the world.

To show "that still she's in it." The Smithville Democrat-Herald says that "to keep in the middle of the road these days, a fellow would have to walk about ten feet in the air."

The Radio Way.

Be mighty glad you're livin' In a world like this today; Soon be so close to Heaven You'll hear what angels say: And you'll meet with angels No matter where you stay!

A Darwin Supper Now.

The Olathe Register says that Mr. Bryan can find a Darwin supporter in Olathe if he wishes. This Olathe man says: "I voted for Bryan three times. He did me no harm that I didn't descend from a monkey."

One Pleased Preacher, Anyway.

"During the absence of my pastor we enjoyed the rare privilege of hearing a good sermon, when Rev. Henry Jones supplied our pulpit. We hope he will come again."

Says the Morning.

Says the Morning, from the sky: In your dream of darkness by; In my daylight, joyous beam Let the day's work read your dream."

Noting that Babe Ruth paid his income tax in New Orleans, Colonel Bailey says:

"Don't know how much it was, but we fancy about twenty home runs fixed it."

"The Silent Drama."

(From Leslie's Weekly.)

"I have found that people do not want talking movies, but they do want silent pictures. The silent picture is a more perfect medium for the expression of the human mind than any other medium yet devised."

(Copyright, 1921, by The Constitution)

WAYS TO KEEP FRIENDS.

I have been asked by one of the readers of these talks to tell how friends may be kept. I will try to do so by keeping the advice or another—a friend yourself!

We attract to ourselves in a large measure those qualities which we ourselves possess. If we are kind, we attract to us those who are kind. If we are unkind, we attract to us those who are unkind.

A friend is the most precious possession in this world. Therefore we should not regret the time and patience and control necessary to become one, so that we may hold not one

ATLANTA REALTY MEN WILL ATTEND SAVANNAH MEETING

A large delegation of Atlanta real estate men will leave Atlanta Tuesday night for Savannah to attend the annual convention of the Georgia Real Estate association, which convenes Wednesday for a one-day session.

An address on taxation by Governor T. W. Hardwick will be one of the features of the program. Mayor Stewart will welcome the guests. V. H. Stillwell, president also will speak. A dinner will be served at Tybee.

Among the Atlanta delegation will be Ward Wright, president of the real estate board; George M. Brown, Jr., Frank Adair, Benjamin D. Watkins, Milton Liebman, Charles Hopkins, Henry B. Scott, Douglas S. McArthur, J. H. Ewing, Howard Arnold, Hunter Perry and Henry Robinson.

The Persians have a different name for each day in the month.

"WGM", The Constitution Broadcasting Station, Heard in Middle West

The radio department of The Constitution is literally swamped with telegrams and letters not only congratulating this newspaper for its enterprise in initiating radio broadcasting, with its great possibilities for constructive commercial service as well as for entertainment and education, but from far away sections, from Cape Girardeau in southern Missouri, and from McLeansboro, Ill., and from Birmingham and Jacksonville "listeners in" on "W. G. M." have hurried the information that they have heard perfectly the voice of The Constitution operator—"clear as a bell" in Missouri and "very 'QSA'" (loud) in Illinois.

And thus begins the unmistakable evidence of the great benefit this service is destined to become to people in every section of the southeast.

Following are some of the letters that were received by The Constitution Monday:

WAVE STRONG AT STATION IN ILLINOIS.

Atlanta Constitution, Atlanta, Ga.:

Your radiophone was heard at this station last night very QSA, using two steps amplification and a Magnavox, your announcements were heard all over the room. This station is entirely "home-made," and is equipped with three stages of power amplification, although the third is seldom used. As per your request that you would like to hear from stations outside the state of Georgia that heard your phone, I take pleasure in stating that your modulation was perfect and wave very strong. Very truly yours,

R. E. CHAPMAN, Opr. 9 BWI, Radio 9-BWI, McLeansboro, Ill., March 18, 1922.

EVERY WORD UNDERSTOOD AT BIRMINGHAM.

Atlanta Constitution, Atlanta, Ga.:

For the past several nights we have heard very clearly your transmitting station. Your modulation is very good indeed, and we can easily understand every word that you say, and we hope that you will let us hear from you advising just what power you are sending out on and just what program you are going to put on in the near future.

We have heard several rumors to the effect that the grand opera from Atlanta, is going to be broadcasted this season by some station in Atlanta. Do you know anything of this, and if so, by what station?

If we can co-operate with you in any way with regards to advising you how we are receiving your messages from time to time, or, in fact, in any way, do not hesitate to command us.

Yours very truly,
ALABAMA RADIO CO.,
By E. L. MARBURY, Pres.
Birmingham, Ala., March 18, 1922.

S.M.-4.

P. S.—The writer, up until three years ago, was a resident of Atlanta for over twenty years, and of course has been very much interested in the various radio operations in your good city.

"CLEAR AS A BELL" IN FAR AWAY MISSOURI.

Atlanta Constitution, Atlanta, Ga.:

I want to congratulate the management and those responsible for your new radiophone broadcasting station, which was opened last night.

At 9 o'clock last night (Friday) at my home, I got the familiar whine of C. W. and I typed your station in, and heard your operator clear as a bell.

Cape Girardeau is located 131 miles south of St. Louis on the Frisco railroad, on the banks of the father of waters, which speaks well for your transmitting and for those who installed the same. It was the first time I had heard from the sunny south.

I did not get your station number, so you might write me, stating on what nights you will broadcast and the number.

Wishing you success in your radio department, I am,

Respectfully yours,
E. E. CAMPBELL, Adv. Man.
Cape Girardeau, Mo., March 18, 1922.

LARGE CROWD ATLANTANS SUCCESSFULLY ENTERTAINED.

Gentlemen:

Your radio announcements were received by me last night and a large crowd of interested listeners were successfully entertained by signals sent from your station. Wishing you every success I am,

Sincerely,
R. L. WALKER,
Working 4-BT.
Atlanta, March 18.

GOOD AND PLAIN IN NASHVILLE, TENN.

Station W. G. M., Atlanta Constitution,

Atlanta, Ga.:

I received the last part of your broadcasting Friday night, March 17, 1922, and same came in good and plain.

Yours respectfully,
LEONARD B. RITTER,
Nashville, Tenn., March 18, 1922.

CONSTITUTION HEARD LOUD AT JACKSONVILLE, ILL.

The Atlanta Constitution, Atlanta, Ga.:

Gentlemen: I heard your radiophone last night and signals were heard all over the room. Heard you on a short-wave regenerative set and one step amplifier.

Yours sincerely,
CLAUDE B. VAIL,
Jacksonville, Ill., March 18, 1922.

DEFENDS FILMS BY RADIOPHONE.

"Dick" Barthelmess, screen star, speaking the other night from U. S. army broadcasting station on Bedloe island, New York, in the shadow of the statue of liberty, issued a challenge to censors of the country to find anything objectionable in any of his screen plays.

It is estimated that 300,000 persons listened in on "Dick's" talk, the figure being based upon army officers' estimates that there are about 50,000 amateur receiving sets in Greater New York, a similar number in adjacent states and that all of these are persons "listen in" on each one of the sets.

The famous star is the first of his profession to receive an invitation by the Amateur Radio Reserve to address its members by means of the radiophone. The Fort Wood stations, in Bedloe island, Brooklyn, the "movie talk" was broadcasted, is the most powerful in the world, it is said. It has transmitted the human voice more than 1,200 miles through the air, and its regular concerts have been heard as far south as Fort McPherson, Ga., and as far west as Fort D. A. Russell, in Wyoming.

Barthelmess, who is said to be an exemplary type of young American, in addition to being one of the finest members of his profession, made a strong plea for his many listeners on behalf of the screen and its people.

He did not challenge the right of stations to censor, but he did protest against "fanatical agitation" against motion pictures by persons who know nothing of how they are made, or why certain side lights, deemed objectionable when considered alone, are necessary to the building of a climax to a story or situation.

Following his defense of the motion picture world, Barthelmess engaged in a dialogue in which he told his vast and unseen audience many of the "back stage" secrets of the screen.

BIG HOTEL PLANS RADIO EQUIPMENT.

Radiophones in every one of its 2,500 rooms is the plan of the builders of the new and mammoth Hotel Commonwealth, world's largest hotel, in New York, now nearing completion. By this means every guest in the hotel, should he wish, can listen in on the nightly concerts and powerful amplifying instruments so that every person in the large rooms will hear plainly the various programs.

In addition to the regular musical selections noted men and women will give short talks on various subjects. Cora Van Norden Coplinger, noted beauty expert, will give her beauty hints in this manner to the women who are interested.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

Q. What is meant by vernier adjustment and what is it for?

A. The vernier adjustment is the fractional adjustment of getting the circuit tuned as exactly as possible to the transmitting station. It is attached a vernier adjustment to your set by shunting a three-plate condenser across the secondary condenser already mentioned above in the primary.

Q. What is the meaning of mfd? Which is best, .001 mfd, .0011 mfd or .0006 mfd? Could you explain this for me?

A. The letters mfd mean microfarad. This is the name of the standard measurement of capacity in a condenser, just in the same manner that the "ampere" is the name of the measurement of current in electricity. The amount of capacity in a condenser is expressed in the number of microfarads, as 2 mfd, or .005 mfd, and so on. These figures signify the amount of capacity or size of the condenser. Of course, the size of the condenser depends upon what it is used for and where it is used.

Q. What effect is caused when the secondary of a tuning coil is pulled in and out of the primary? Is this action really necessary? If not could two stationary coils be used?

A. In a tuning coil when the secondary is pulled out of the primary, it is in a condition that is known as "loosely-coupled." The object of this is to get sharper tuning and cut down the amount of the secondary out of the primary you will reduce the strength of the signals of the station you are listening to, but you will to a certain extent eliminate interference. You will see, therefore, that stationary coils would not answer the purpose. One coil can be used for both primary and secondary, provided that suitable "sliders" are used for the primary and secondary circuits.

Q. Can the same ground be used for lightning switch and for instru-

Atlanta Constitution's Official Government Radio Market Service Broadcasts Quotations Monday

The Constitution's radiophone broadcasting has been incorporated for the purpose of being of real constructive value to the agricultural, industrial and commercial interests of the state and section.

As an illustration of the worth of this service, take the problem of marketing perishables.

The law of supply and demand enters into this to a most important degree.

If the city of Pittsburgh, to illustrate, normally consumed 50 cars of watermelons a day and Georgia growers were preparing to shoot 75 cars of melons into that market at a single movement, what would be the consequences? The growers would not be able to pay the freight on their shipments.

If New York consumes 500 cars of Rocky Ford cantaloupes a day and had on the sidings 1,000 cars on a specific day and a thousand cars rolling toward New York, would it not be well to divert Georgia cantaloupe shipments for the day to another market? And so on.

And then the prices—the opening and the closing quotations—as well as the figures on stocks and daily receipts.

All of this information is of immeasurable benefit during the shipping season.

This feature of The Constitution's radio service will be developed from day to day, and the radio quotations substantially published in the regular market pages of the paper.

The Constitution at 6 o'clock Monday night broadcasted from its radio station the following market quotations, most of which are new to the regular market readers today.

This serves to illustrate the constructive value of this radio service—particularly as the same develops.

"THE MODERN JOVE" ON THURSDAY NIGHT.

Schenectady, N. Y., March 20.—(Special).—Dr. Charles P. Steinmetz, electrical wizard and chief consulting engineer of the General Electric company, will give his first radio talk Thursday night, March 23, from this city. "The Modern Jove," as he has been called recently as a result of his research on the subject of the lightning and his production in the laboratory of artificial lightning of one million horsepower, will talk to the fraternity of the air on "Lightning."

Dr. Steinmetz's address will be broadcasted by radio telephone at 8:30 p. m., station time, from the newly licensed General Electric company station in this city. The station call is W. G. Y. It is equipped with the most modern of radio apparatus, including the multiple tuned antenna stat to get the right value of current in the filament.

Q. Can one jack and a rotary can switch be used in place of two or three in a detector and two-step amplifier set?

A. You might be able to devise some scheme with a can switch whereby it would take the place of two or three jacks, but I doubt whether it would be as efficient as the jacks themselves.

Q. Will spider-web coils take the place of a transformer or variocoupler? What is their value and use?

A. Spider-web coils can be used in the same manner as honeycomb coils, but they are more suitable for long-wave reception.

Chronic coughs and persistent colds lead to serious lung trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with twofold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and kills the germ.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by the medical fraternity as the greatest healing agency for the treatment of chronic coughs and colds and other forms of throat and lung troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and destroys the germs that lead to consumption.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of chronic coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, catarrhal bronchitis and other forms of throat and lung

FLOODS RAMPANT IN MIDDLE WEST

Chicago, March 20.—With scores of towns in Indiana and Illinois partially inundated by unprecedented flood waters, heavy damage reported in Wisconsin and Minnesota from a combination of heavy snows, sleet storms, and a temperature fluctuating from far below zero to mild spring weather, the middle west will greet the first day of spring with mixed feelings.

according to reports to the United News. The southern Indiana lowlands are covered with water, in some districts to a depth of several feet, and residents are fearing a recurrence of the disastrous floods of 1913, when hundreds of bridges and buildings were swept away and many lives lost. The Sangamon river, in Illinois, is 20 feet above normal and crops on adjoining farms are suffering heavy damage, according to reports. Heavy snow storms in Minnesota and Wisconsin, with zero weather, followed by heavy thaws, have caused flood conditions in those states.

Water is reported running over the great impounding dam at Decatur, Ill., where the Sangamon river is on a rampage, and Petersburg is almost completely inundated, with families fleeing from the lowlands. Other communities report heavy damage to corn granaries.

In Indiana small streams are said to be swollen to unprecedented size and ranging beyond their banks because of heavy rains. The situation is reported aggravated because of the backwash of flood waters of the Ohio river.

Much damage is reported in southern Indiana and Illinois to spring wheat and the losses will total many thousands of dollars, it is reported.

Business in northwest states is reported at a standstill by several towns because of floods, or heavy snows.

L. F. M. Store Makes Debut With Remarkable Business

Opening in Atlanta Monday with a far greater volume of business than had been expected under any estimates made and with crowds of shoppers filling the three floors and mezzanine gallery the L. F. M. store of Atlanta made its mercantile bow and added the latest link to its chain of stores. President W. E. Leonard announced Monday night that the first day's business and the store's reception by the shoppers were eminently satisfactory.

"We feel that there is a field for us in Atlanta and that it is necessary to our business to locate our headquarters for the southeast here," Mr. Leonard said Monday night. "I think the business we did here today, the manner in which the people purchased goods, the pleasant reception and approval given our selling methods, and the intimate and particular value of our buying system to the shopper, more than proved the justification of our establishment in Atlanta of one of the L. F. M. stores."

Great Crowd Present.

When the doors of the Leonard-Fitzpatrick-Muehler company, Inc., were thrown open early, a great crowd was present to look over and inspect the bargains advertised in the Sunday newspapers. One series of garments, listed for sale on the second floor, was sold entirely out before an hour had passed. Many other groups of bargains were sold in a short time after the store was opened.

The rush was not confined to the early hours, but a stream of people poured into the doors of the store at

Nos. 3 to 7 Whitehall street steadily. When the doors were closed at 8 o'clock in the afternoon the store was filled with shoppers.

Many expressions of approval of the splendidly lighted new store were heard and there was favorable comment uttered on the large, roomy aisles and the methods established for affording the greatest convenience to the shoppers.

"We are highly pleased with everything about our first day. It could not have been better," Mr. Leonard declared.

Many Congratulations.

Several hundred telegrams of congratulations were received by the executive department heads and sales force members from many southern cities, most of them coming from Jacksonville, Fla., and Montgomery, Mobile and Durham, Ala., where other stores in the L. F. M. chain are located. Many floral offerings were sent to the store by friends, both in Atlanta and in other cities, and these formed a pretty display near the front.

One of the telegrams received by Mr. Fitzpatrick came from The Florida Metropolis, afterword newspaper, and was signed by Quimby Metcalf, general manager. Following is a copy of the telegram:

"The Florida Metropolis knows that you will meet with success in your Atlanta store. Your policy of the best merchandise at reasonable prices is a commendable one. We sincerely believe that the city of Atlanta is to be congratulated on having secured a branch of your store for this city."

Need of Advertising Shown In Address by Mackintosh

Before an assemblage of more than 600 business men and women, representing all of Atlanta's principal civic organizations, Charles H. Mackintosh, president of the Associated Advertising Clubs of the World, at noon Monday on the Hotel Andover roof, delivered one of the most impressive and instructive addresses that has ever been heard in this city on advertising.

The subject of Mr. Mackintosh's address was "Creative and Retail Selling," which he has delivered in more than 100 of the principal cities of this country, before approximately 50,000 people. He arrived in Atlanta Friday and will remain here until Tuesday. He will continue on his present tour until June 11, when the annual convention of the Associated Advertising clubs will be held in Milwaukee.

George Lowman Presides.

George S. Lowman, president of the Atlanta Ad club, presided at the meeting. He welcomed the distinguished guest, and also extended a welcome to Mayor Key, John E. Law, president of the Rotary club; Thornton Mayre, president of the Lions club; Julian Boehm, president of the Civitan club; Tom Winn, an official of the Kiwanis club; and W. O. Foote, president of the Chamber of Commerce.

A response in the form of greetings from each of these officials preceded the principal speaker.

"The manufacturer who wants to make his business grow," asserted Mr. Mackintosh, "must look to modern sales promotion methods, and particularly to advertising, to create demand. Some manufacturers take the position that they are getting steadily and are content to reply upon jobbers and merchandise brokers for their outlet."

"The manufacturer who pins his faith to the merchandise broker and other distributors of that class in his effort to grow will not soon reach his goal in that manner," he said. "Merchandise brokers are not doubling the capacity of anybody's mills. The merchandise broker has twenty or thirty firms on his list, and after he has consumed the capacity of one manufacturer he does not beg that man to double his plant. He gets more of exactly the same stuff from one of a hundred other mills. It is impossible to do the job of a single manufacturer except by creating a demand for that particular article which cannot be switched to anybody else.

Where Advertising Begins.

"What will we do? Advertising today begins with the product, because we recognize that no article is worth advertising or selling that would not sell itself if the full facts about it were thoroughly understood. That is a sweeping statement, but you will find it true on analysis. The most that advertising and selling can do is to make the full facts thoroughly understood."

"That is why the advertising man today starts to build his advertising into his article. To build advertising into anything, we must consider the standpoint of the customer. We can not advertise articles; we advertise uses. Nobody since the beginning of the world has bought an article; he buys a use."

"Twenty years ago Mr. Simmons, of the Simmons Hardware company, expressed that truth. He said: 'Don't try to sell people an augur; nobody wants an augur. Sell them the need to make holes and they will have to buy augurs to make them. People don't want to buy hammers; but if you will sell them the need to drive nails, he has got to buy a hammer to drive a nail.' We must consider the use if we wish to build advertising into our brush."

Advertising Points.

"Now let us build a few more advertising points into our package. Building advertising into the package made the cereal trades almost entirely. In the old days you know how the grocer would have sold cereals. He would say, 'Get out of these, pussy, and scoop out some of the cereal and say, 'Now, pussy, you can come on back,' and so the mills began to put their products into nice clean cartons and to build up the cereal trade. We will do that. We will build again upon the standpoint of the customer. You know what we want to do with that carton; of course, we want to use it on our poster boards, on our street car cards, in our newspaper advertisements and wherever we advertise that brush. We will have a giant picture of the carton across the corner, so that when people go into a drug store they will see that old familiar picture. That is the biggest advertising point we have to tie the whole thing together."

"We might as well get another advertising point and capitalize the fact we are a many million dollar company, so we put a guarantee on the carton. If this toothbrush for any reason fails to give you the kind of service you think it should, bring it back to any drug store and get another. That is a sweeping guarantee, but we know we can do it because it has been tested by other people, and we know that you can not make a guarantee too sweeping. We will have four advertising points built into our brush and three in our package, and now we are ready to proceed."

PLAN TO STAMPEDE BONUS BILL BALKED

motion to suspend the rules and pass the bill.

The necessitated further conference among the leaders, who refused to abandon their plan to call up the bill with the rules suspended so as to cut off a motion to reconsider the bill as well as all amendments. The whole question of procedure was discussed at a conference held in the speaker's office after the house adjourned after a 50 minutes' session. Present at this conference were members of the ways and means committee and the party steering committee, as well as other leaders.

No final decision on procedure was reached, but there was at least a tacit agreement that the bill would come up Thursday.

Mondell Statement.

Representative Mondell issued this statement, when the conference broke up:

"Tomorrow we shall reach a decision, possibly by noon, as to when and how the measure will be brought up for consideration. There will be no party conference. As for the bill, the floor leader said: 'Oh, undoubtedly, probably not later than Thursday.'"

Speaker Gillett said, "Things are as unsettled as they were" adding that he had not stated that he would recognize anyone to present a special rule to take the bill up under a suspension of the rules.

"The only thing certain is that the bill will come up Thursday," he said.

Chairman Campbell, of the rules committee, said the idea was to dispose of the bill on Thursday, but with liberal debate.

The speaker's attitude is that he must be shown that a majority favors suspension of the rules," said Mr. Campbell. "My impression is that he is satisfied on that point."

In their meeting with the speaker the members went over the whole situation fairly fully. Representative Lindeberger, of California, a former service man, wanted a party conference called to thresh out the bonus question and the speaker was represented as favoring this procedure.

Others opposed such a plan, however, arguing that this would open up the whole bill to change.

Mr. Lindeberger finally agreed not to press for a conference and after further discussion it was decided to leave until tomorrow the final decision by the speaker as to procedure.

At White House.

Attending the white house conference, which lasted nearly two hours, were Mr. Mondell, Chairman Fordney, of the ways and means committee; Chairman Campbell, of the rules committee; Chairman Tower, of the house conference; Chairman Peas, of the congressional committee, and Representative Longworth, of Ohio. They laid the whole situation before the president, emphasizing the change that had been made in the bill since the president's last letter to Mr. Fordney suggesting a sales tax or postponement of the legislation. Some of them stressed the desire to proceed under a suspension of the rules so as to cut off amendments which they believed would be offered with a view to giving those in charge of the bill.

The president was represented as giving no indications one way or another as to his views on the bill and as desiring to be left free to pass judgment on it when it reached the white house. He was quoted as saying that he had not had opportunity to study all of its provisions as fully as he might wish; also that he thought the responsibility was with congress at this time.

Garner Overruled.

When the white house callers got on the floor of the house they were surrounded by groups of members eager to learn at first hand what the president had said about the bill.

That is a sweeping guarantee, but we know we can do it because it has been tested by other people, and we know that you can not make a guarantee too sweeping. We will have four advertising points built into our brush and three in our package, and now we are ready to proceed."

"The president was represented as giving no indications one way or another as to his views on the bill and as desiring to be left free to pass judgment on it when it reached the white house. He was quoted as saying that he had not had opportunity to study all of its provisions as fully as he might wish; also that he thought the responsibility was with congress at this time."

"I think we ought to have some information concerning the question when we are going to take up the bonus bill," said Mr. Garner.

"The chair thinks that is a reasonable request and will say that no one will be recognized as being that up today," replied Mr. Gillett, thus giving the house official information of his decision.

"We again asked the speaker if he had any information as to when the bill would be taken up and when answered in the negative, declared: 'The storehouse is either locked up or gone dry, I don't know which.'"

finally prevailed by an almost straight party vote.

Senator Norris, republican, Nebraska, predicted that another generation would see the construction of such tubes for the transportation of mail between great cities instead of in the more limited districts, such as congested areas of New York.

Mr. McKellar said that if the New York tubes were restored, then Chicago, St. Louis, Philadelphia and Boston would seek "to push the camel's body under the tent" and get those systems restored. Mr. Norris replied that he was unacquainted with the questions in those cities, but regarded the use of tubes as "a step in human progress" and he did not think that the senate should stand in the way.

Republicans Aroused.

During consideration of the amendment to increase the number of postal inspectors from 420 to 520, the senate defeated an amendment by Senator McKellar to increase the number only 30 instead of 100. Senator Harrison's charges of politics aroused the republicans and Chairman Townsend, of the postoffice committee, informed the senate that there were pending some 47,000 claims and protests in the postal service and he believed the additional inspectors would save the government as much as $10,000,000 a year in cleaning up those cases. Many of the cases, Senator Townsend said, had been pending from two to five years because the force of inspectors was absolutely inadequate. He declared that many of them were due to the heavy increase in parcel post business, but that fraud, inefficiency and incompetency and other reasons were included in the protests and claims.

From the subject of claims against the government the debate went into the filling of vacancies in postmasterhips and later politics again was charged. Senator McKellar described President Harding's ruling giving former service men priority in appointments after passage of civil service examinations as the "greatest hoax we have seen." He scored statements that the ruling was being carried out.

Would Fire All Democrats.

Senator Moses, republican, New Hampshire, broke into the discussion to reply to statements by Mr. Harrison that an administration wanted to use the new inspectors to find ways of rooting democrats out of jobs.

"If the president listened to me about that," said the New Hampshire senator, "he would have written one executive order taking out from civil service every job put under it by Woodrow Wilson. The democrats are yapping because they fear some of their office holders are going to lose. I'm in favor of every administration being surrounded by its friends, and we have examples now of democrats left in berths, throwing monkey wrenches into machinery and handicapping the service."

Senator Edge, republican, New Jersey, added that the democrats had put out the republicans without the normality of an inspection, and therefore did not need so many inspectors. He said that former Postmaster General Burleson had been successful in that work.

term for involuntary manslaughter, Moore escaped and had been sought by the Georgia officers since that time. Moore and Hays were captured several days later. Moore and Hays had successfully evaded capture.

Moore, according to Atlanta police, had quite a record. He was arrested several years ago in connection with a train robbery between Atlanta and Austell. At the time of his arrest he was charged with implication in the robbery of the Royston bank, of Royston, Ga. This charge was still hanging over him, officers said.

Moore was shot to death by Constable Couch when he surprised two men in the act of blowing a safe of Mathew & Whitlock, Trenton merchants. The two men had a few minutes before successfully looted the safe of the Wise Mercantile company, it was stated.

After the exchange of shots between the constable and Moore, the second man, whose name was given as L. E. Rawls, of Batesburg, leaped into an automobile and attempted to escape. He was captured by a posse in Aiken county.

Plans for "Cleanup and Paint" Week In Atlanta Started

Plans for a "clean up and paint up" campaign in Atlanta from March 25 to April 25, will be discussed at a meeting in Mayor Key's office Wednesday morning at 10:30 o'clock. The mayor has asked the citizens' employment committee, the painters of Atlanta, newspaper representatives and various other agencies to be present.

He wants the painters' association to offer special inducements to people to have painting done during the next month, declaring the effect of this would be to boost the employment situation, get new business for the painters, and improve the city's look for grand opera week.

Salt beds covering an area of 40 square miles exist in Nova Scotia. One bed alone is said to be 800 feet wide and 80 feet deep.

Mrs. John F. Lyons Will Speak Wednesday at Music Club Meet

Mrs. John F. Lyons, of Texas, president of the National Federation of Music Clubs, will spend Wednesday in Atlanta as the guest of Miss Nan Stephens and will speak at the regular meeting of the Music club Wednesday morning at 10:30 o'clock at Eggleston hall.

At 1 o'clock, Miss Stephens will entertain luncheon for Mrs. Lyons, the party to number twelve.

Mrs. Lyons is now at Miami, Fla., in attendance on the south Atlantic district conference Federation of Music Clubs, after speaking at the Georgia state convention in Cordele last week. With Miss Stephens, she will leave Atlanta Wednesday night for Nashville to attend the meeting of the board of directors of the National Federation of Music Clubs.

Mrs. Lyons is said to be a pleasing speaker and her subject before the Atlanta Music club will be the relation of the individual club to the national body.

Miss Stephens, just returned from the Georgia convention of Music clubs at Cordele, announces that winners in the state contest are now in Florida to compete in the district contest, winners in the district to take part later in the national contest for valuable awards.

George McNamee, boy soprano, won the singers' contest at Cordele, with Miss Elizabeth Gray, of Savannah, given honorable mention.

Spencer McGaughey, of Atlanta, won honorable mention in the violin contest, and is representing Georgia at the district meeting in Florida, the first prize winner being unable to attend.

Miss Vivian Russell, of Atlanta, won in the piano contest.

Visiting Belles Will Be Given Party Series

The Constitution's Novel-a-Week

The Valley of the Sun

By William McCoy

(Copyright, 1932, for The Constitution)

Next Week: "Peter the Brazen," by George F. Worts

While the dead days groped their way into the west the exodus from the valley began. Many of the homesteaders were without means to tide them over until the next harvest. They must go to where they could find work. Wagons heaped with household goods, improvised seats filled with women and children, plowed through the dust of winding desert roads.

But a day came when the last living sign of the invading hordes of famine vanished, and when Jerry stopped on his way to town at the little home in Mirage Meadows, the sisters ran out eagerly to meet him. "Hear that, Cal?" His old-time spirit flashed as he turned to the big horse beside him, when Marjorie had replied to his offer to bring them anything he could from town. "Hear that?" he repeated. "All she wants us to bring is 'good news'! And you feelin' strong—strong enough to tote back anything as big as that?" he grinned, and rode away.

When he stopped to speak to Rainbow Ben, he noted a stranger standing in front of Major West's store. He was about to ask regarding him, when Rainbow erupted.

"I been doin' some ridin'," he volunteered. "I been plumb over the valley, an' I been braggin' a leetle while about that hawse o' yours. Yes, sir, I come down near havin' to shoot Jim Burton in the foot to keep him from marchin' right over an' killin' Wolf Vogel! Then gals up your way has sort o' found a place in folks' hearts 'round here, an' I come so blame near havin' a general stampede that I wish I was a-ridin' Cal, so's to be in time to kill that snake afore somebody got there ahead o' me."

Cal, who had been looking at Jerry with some considerable interest, at last folks sort o' agreed that if her pint o' view was good enough for me, an' you, an' Rainbow, it was good enough for them. Then he an' Saray an' Betsy meandered over to see Wolf. He didn't say over to see Wolf, he got out his gun, he got out his gun, he got out his gun.

"You see I made it sort o' plain that if one o' them gals even thought she saw him, we'd kill him!" "Come over an' meet Mr. Stanley," he hurried on. "He's a stranger, come on the mornin' train, and they walked to meet the new arrival."

"I picked you for Jerry Miller as soon as I saw your horse," Stanley laughed when Rainbow introduced them. "Ben has been telling me about you. I am beginning to pick up a crowd for some work."

"Work!" exclaimed Jerry, stepping closer. "You mean you want men to work to work here?"

"Just that," smiled the other, his eyes keen.

"Can a man hold his homestead and—work for you?" Jerry asked to believe what his ears heard.

Cal, his brain dizzy with joy, yet fearful, that is exactly what I want you to do," Stanley nodded quietly.

"I am an engineer connected with the reclamation service, and we are preparing to throw a dam across the canyon up—"

"The dam!" Jerry interrupted in a whisper, then gripped the engineer's shoulders. "There's a couple of girls on a homestead up the valley," he tensely, "and one of them is a bookkeeper and stenographer! You'll see her—a job!" he stammered in eagerness, while the other man studied his eyes. "She's got to have an office, and—"

"I'll need her," the engineer answered, still smiling his quiet, inflexible smile. "I'll need her, and I need every man in the valley and great many more when we get going. Ben is to be my boss teamster, and from what he has told me, I could like you, if you want a job, to help me in—"

"I'm hired, chief! I want to yell, somehow I can't!" Jerry gulped, and looked away.

When Jerry rushed into the home in Mirage Meadows, the girls looked once at his radiant face, then ran to him. "You brought it!" Marjorie cried—and when he told them of the treasure they had all found at the foot of their dream rainbow, tears of unutterable thanksgiving welled into their eyes.

Down the valley, threading the narrowest between the river's wrath and the low hills, Jerry rode with the good news hour after hour, and as he rode his heart grew more humble—more every time he stopped Cal at a lonely homestead he saw the joyful look of hope arise in haggard eyes.

When Jerry drove into Mirage early the next afternoon, the straggling street was already dotted with wagons, horses and burros, even though it lacked an hour of the time set for the men to report. When the engineer went out to meet the men, twenty-two homesteaders faced him, their families grouped about them.

Speaking quietly, his eyes traveling from face to face, he told them that the survey made years before had been but a preliminary step, that he had planned to establish a permanent camp at a convenient spot, survey the dam site, the land which would be covered by the lake formed by the dam, and then survey the valley, so that boundaries could be established, canals laid out on paper, and the acreage to be irrigated computed and classified.

For days John Stanley rode with Jerry about the valley, through the canyon and over the lava hills, and far and wide over the dead plain above it. But every day he spent some time with Marjorie, stopping at the home, while she wrote out in longhand the requisitions he dictated for material. Then came a day when loaded freight cars were shunted onto the Mirage station switch, and the men of the valley, summoned by Jerry, took out of those cars lumber, tents, furniture, camp duff of every nature, horses, mules, wagons, hay, grain, and all manner of equipment. At the camp site the sound of saws and hammers broke the stillness, where others were busy erecting the camp under the direction of the engineer.

The news of the dam spread far and near. Settlers, adventurers, workmen, came from north, south, east and west—and the camp grew as if by magic. A huge, wooden-floored canvas mess tent flanked the neat frame office shack where Marjorie held office with her books and new typewriter.

The work on the dam progressed steadily with the passing days. The foundations for the ends were blasted from the rim of the gorge to its bottom, and then a great trench was dug across the dry wash of the canyon's floor. Huge timbers, firmly braced, held the sand and gravel in check while the trench went down, deeper and deeper until its floor was bedrock. While workmen wrought a network of twisted beams and rods of steel, great concrete mixers were placed upon foundations already prepared for them, and jointed pipes stretched from their spouts down into the trench.

But a day came when the telegraph operator at Mirage left his key to hurry to Major West's store, and men rode here and there while women drove excitedly homeward, and the news leaped from lip to lip and spanned the spaces as if borne by the air—the war had come to the Valley of the Sun.

Orders came directing John Stanley to stop work on the dam for the duration of the war. The floating population of laborers who peopled the camp drifted rapidly toward the great centers, in answer to the lure of high wages. Many of the new settlers followed, and the silence crept again into the valley.

Marjorie worked early and late with the engineer, closing up the business affairs of the project. In answer to one of Stanley's letters a summons came for Rainbow Ben, and he returned to the valley he wore beneath his shirt the badge of a deputy United States marshal, and his old heart was glad to see Stanley's completed arrangements provided for a caretaker for the supplies and machinery at the dam site, for Marjorie's appointment to keep and transcribe records of temperature, rainfall and flood measurements, the whole to be in charge of Rainbow Ben.

Jerry locked his little house, put the key into his pocket, mounted Cal and rode slowly to Mirage Meadows through the fast growing dusk of his last day in the valley. A little way from his home he found Marjorie watching the sunset.

"I told Rainbow I'd be here, he's going to drive me to the dam, and Jerry began, trying to be casual, and then hurried on, his eyes holding hers. "You are to have my team while I'm gone, and—"

"I'm going to give you Cal, Marjorie," he said, and stopped to clear his throat. "If—if you ever have to give him up, give him to Rainbow."

"You must not give him to me," she answered, leaning against Cal's neck. "He loves you too much—it isn't right to give him away! But I love him, and I'll—"

"I'll love him for you, till you come back!" "There is the key to my house," he said, extending the key, "if you girls need—"

"Give that to Lenore," she whispered, interrupting. "She has been there so much with you, and everything in it is so close—she's faltered to a stop, then stumbled on while he vainly studied her eyes in the deepening shadows, and she hid her face for a moment, then she looked up at him. "Oh, you must love her—she's so—"

"Love her!" he exclaimed, his voice scarcely more than a whisper. "No one could know her, be with her, and not love her! She seems like a—spirit. I love her, but—"

"Then go to her—tell her!" Marjorie commanded, her hand upon his shoulder. "This has come so suddenly, it has dashed her! It is right for you to go, she would not have you stay but—giving you up may kill her!"

The Lenore he found waiting for him in the golden glow of the lamp took his breath away, and the light in her eyes made him dizzy as he looked. Without spoken word he took her in his arms, held her gently, fearing to crush her, and she rested content. While he whispered words which came rushing, halting, then hurrying, again, telling her he worshiped her, then her arms found their way about his neck and she clung to him, then, partly released, she kissed him, and he reverently kissed her.

Only when he gave her the key to his little home did the tears well into her eyes. She hid her face for a moment, then she looked up at him. "I love you, but—"

"It's jes' me," he whispered. "I'm going to stay out here, so's to git sort o' chummy with any ghost what shows up! Jes' wait quiet, an' don't worry none," he urged.

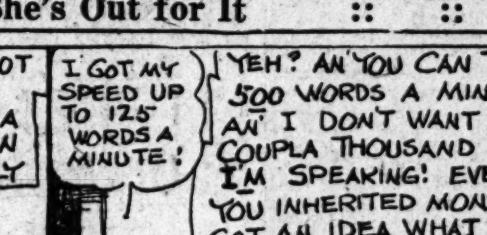

How long they waited the girls could never tell, but at last came the blood-chilling shriek in the black night. In spite of the fact that they knew Rainbow was near, the girls clung to each other, trembling because of overtaxed nerves. Again the weird cry mounted, fell, mounted again in piercing crescendo, drawing nearer, nearer.

Ferns and Kelly Seeking Kayoes In Legion Headliner Tonight

Birmingham Fighter Will Depend on Endurance and Punch Against Atlanta Welterweight.

BY CLIFF WHEATLEY.

It is pretty generally conceded by Atlanta's pugilistic experts that someone is going to drop tonight in the headliner of the American Legion's stic card at Walk Miller's Foreign street club, when Fearless Ferns and Battling Kelly, Birmingham's welter and middleweight champions, meet.

Especially for this encounter, he opines, the Fearless One has lost away whatever defensive tactics he might have possessed, and as the Slagtown battler never had any such system, it would seem that these two fighters will delight in toe-to-toe action will see plenty of it.

Both parties to the controversy went through their final sparring yesterday. They'll do nothing today except wait patiently for the gong that sends them forth to struggle. Nice crowds saw them wade through imaginary opponents and his lads made impressive showings.

Kelly will depend altogether on his endurance and punching prowess to solve any problems that may arise.

The Birmingham boy believes it is physically impossible for any fighter to knock him out and his faith in his own punch is well founded.

Young Stribling, who had an argument with Kelly in Slagtown recently, has a lot of respect for Kelly's clout and is responsible for much of the belief that the battler is one of Dixie's toughest fighters.

The Macon flash was in Atlanta shortly after announcement of the Kelly-Ferns bout. He announced that he'd have to be mighty busy with his scholastic duties to miss it.

It should be one of the greatest battles ever given in Atlanta.

Stribling's son asserted, "I've fought both and ought to know. They are even in gameness and there is little to choose between them in hitting."

He couldn't knock Kelly out, although he hit him with everything I carried in stock and Ferns' head just as tough, you might recall, "cut" him a winner.

They're both good.

FERNs TO RETURN TO OLD SYSTEM.

Once upon a time there was not a more popular fighter in Atlanta than Fearless Ferns. He was a young and foolish and listened to the wiles of his trainers who argued against the mussy brand of boxing. "What's the use of taking a chance with a mussy brand of boxing?" they argued and Ferns listened.

It's the quickest way to lose popularity, but he did it. He was a mussy and he plugged along putting down a decision here and there and dropping them just about as often. Soon he was hard nut for a mussy. Then came the realization that he'd made a terrible mistake and he set about to rectify it.

But Ferns wasn't through arriving at his decision.

He was still a mussy.

TECH SEASON OPENS FRIDAY

BY JOHN STATION.

The real opening of the Tech baseball season is here. Friday and Saturday Tech will meet the strong crew from Clemson in a catch-catch game.

Clemson has adopted the watch policy as regards to publicity. They have not filled the newspapers with stories of a wonderful team. They prefer to demonstrate their ability on the field or so it seems.

The Detroit series was just the thing needed to round out the team. A little experience under fire, and a taste of defeat are good enough for a team.

Now that it is to get whipped, they will not fear defeat so much and consequently ought to play better ball.

With a pitching staff such as Tech has, there is no reason why they should not go through the season in fine style and possibly make a game. At any rate, they ought to play jumpy ball.

The Clemson game will show as to the actual strength of the team. If they can defeat the boys from South Carolina, Tech will have more room to brag. So, for the present, let it be said there will be two good games in the series.

At Station to Return.

It was learned from authoritative sources that the St. Louis Cardinals would not be in the city for the Tech game. The rumor may or may not be true, but it is sufficient to say that Al does not deny it.

Al does deny it. He says that he is a football veteran with some four years' experience and knows pretty well by now just how a tackle on a football team should be played.

He made all southern tackle on the composite team. He has not shown up for spring football yet, so there is still question.

Speaking of spring football, yesterday was ideal for practice. The team heaved and punted and grunted the bucking frame all over the field. They caught numerous passes, and chased many punts down the field, but the most important work was the signal play.

Coach Alexander got the squad together and gave them a few words of encouragement. He also gave signals for a few of the simpler plays, and a few passes. Then he had two teams practice the signals and run a few plays just for fun. The teams looked good.

One team looked good. Greer and Elliot at wide, Johnson and Lyman at tackle, LeBar and McIntyre, guards, and Frye, center. The backfield was composed of McDonough, Greer, Johnson, and Lyman.

RIFLE CLUB HEARS SPRATT

BY JOHN STATION.

At a recent meeting of the Atlanta Rifle and Pistol club, Major W. T. Spratt, Jr., gave a very interesting and instructive talk on rifle shooting.

Major Spratt, who is connected with the Ordnance department of the national guard, is a state secretary of the National Rifle association, and one of the best shots in the state, his reputation with the military arm being nationwide.

"It is a pleasure to note the interest shown in rifle shooting," said Major Spratt, "and the Atlanta club can count on his cooperation in every way in the interest of the promotion of rifle practice."

For four or five years, Atlanta has been the only city in the country to have a considerable rifle shooting club, and it is a pleasure to note the interest shown in rifle shooting.

"Rifle shooting is a sport of intense interest, and I do not know of any other sport that attracts a higher class of men, on the whole, than it does."

Forsyth Players Make Bow Before Capacity Audience

"Adam and Eve" was just the sort of a heart-warming American comedy to start the Forsyth Players on their way to Atlanta right into the hearts of the Forsyth Players.

The S. A. Lynch interests are attempting something unique in theatrical annals with this group of players. For one, I'm not going to fall into the error of terming them a stock company. The words suggest a certain lack of individuality in their work. The Forsyth Players have both finish and style in abundant quantities. No company has appeared in Atlanta this season that has possessed more.

Walter S. Baldwin, the veteran producer and manager who directs the organization, announced a policy of bringing Broadway right to Atlanta. The policy makes a fine catch phrase, but the remarkable part about Mr. Baldwin's announcement is that he has done it.

A Splendid Company.

The name, fame and charm of Clara Joel are too well known to comment on in this connection, but the fact is worthy of comment that the players with whom Miss Joel has been seen are a group of players who are not only good but also very good. With all her beauty and talent, she does not tower over her associates. Rather she seems one of them, adding her own peculiar luster without dimming theirs.

Which ought to be proof enough of the excellence of the players brought to Atlanta for an indefinite engagement.

Atlanta has been doing a lot of talking about the Forsyth Players, but the real test of their quality is in the performance of the play. The orchestra was filled with de-

WHEAT AND CORN ARE UNCHANGED

Chicago, March 20.—Increasing supplies on ocean passage, together with lower quotations from Liverpool, had a depressing effect today on the wheat market here. Prices closed unsettled at the same as Saturday's finish. Lower, with May $1.33 3/4 to $1.38 1/2, and July at $1.20 7/8 to $1.21 1/4. Corn and oats both finished unchanged to 3/8c, and provisions unchanged to a setback of 1-2c.

Bears in the wheat pit had the advantage from the outset owing to reports showing that world shipments for the week just ended were much larger than during the preceding week and nearly double the total a year ago. The amount on ocean passage totaled more than 5,000,000 bushels, increase compared with the week before. In this connection it was said that the British fleet was being sent to 9 cents a bushel under American shippers. Besides, domestic crop advances were favorable. On the resulting decline in the market here, however, demand became better and there were numerous rallies, the chief basis for which was an assertion by a leading exporter that America was being depended on to supply 70 per cent of the bread needs of Europe. Word that Germany had purchased 500,000 bushels of wheat in the last week of the year was further help toward recovery of prices near the end of the day.

Corn and oats were easier with wheat. Announcement of a decided enlargement of the visible supply of corn was partly offset by smallness of country offerings.

Provisions were higher early as a result of an upturn in hog values, but declined later, influenced by lard sales on orders ascribed to Liverpool.

Try for the Big

HERE'S HOW TO SOLVE THE PUZZLE

FOUR MORE DAYS for you to make up a list of "B-Words" from the fascinating picture above, and compete for the $2,000.00 cash reward. It is easy to play. In the picture you can readily see Boat, Baby, Barrel, etc. Now hunt for more "B-Word" objects. You will be surprised at how many you can find, and how clearly distinct they are. The first prize, as shown above, will be awarded to the answer having the largest and nearest correct number of "B-Words," second prize to the second best, etc. It is fun and you have nearly a week to make up your list. Do not fail to try.

QUALIFY FOR $2,000

You can win $50.00 without sending a subscription, but if you want to win $2,000.00 or another large prize, read the following: If you send one six-month subscription to The Daily and Sunday Constitution at $5.00 and win first prize you will receive $500.00 instead of only $50.00. (Read second column in prize list.)

YOUR BIG OPPORTUNITY is made possible by sending two six-month subscriptions at $5.00 each or one yearly subscription at $9.50 to The Daily and Sunday Constitution, then if you win first prize, your reward will be $2,000.00. (Read last column of prize list.)

Either new, renewal or subscriptions to start at any future date can be accepted.

OBSERVE THESE SIMPLE RULES

1. The puzzle game is open to any man, woman, girl or boy, except winners of any previous Constitution Puzzle Game, employees, or relatives of employees, of The Atlanta Constitution. It costs nothing to take part in the game.
2. Answers must be written on one side of the paper only. You must also number each word consecutively, 1, 2, 3, etc. Do not write more than one "B-Word" with each number. Write your complete name and address on each page in the upper right-hand corner. Use a separate sheet to write anything else.
3. Only English words found in the English dictionary will be accepted. Unfamiliar words will be considered incorrect. Either the singular or plural of a word may be used, not both. Compound and hyphenated words cannot be used.
4. "B-Word" of the same spelling will be counted only once, even though used in different objects. You can name each object only once; however, you may also name any visible part of an object.
5. All lists of words must be mailed by March 25, 1934.
6. The answer having the largest and nearest correct list of words beginning with "B" appearing in the picture, will win first prize, etc. Neatness, style and handwriting will not have any bearing in deciding the winners.
7. Each answer received will be equally considered regardless of whether it is accompanied by subscriptions or not.
8. "B-Word" participants may work together in making the words. However, only one prize will be awarded to any household. Prizes will not be awarded to more than one of any number of people outside of the family, where several have worked together.
9. The full amount of any prize tied for will be paid to each tied participant.
10. The winners will be decided right after the close of the game, by three judges having no connection with The Constitution, and participants entering the game agree to accept their decisions as final and conclusive.
11. The names of the prize winners and the correct list of "B-Words" will be published in The Constitution just as soon after the close of the game as possible.
